

Henning Bergmann

Henning Bergmann is CEO and Member of the Board of Directors at the German Derivatives Association (Deutscher Derivate Verband, DDV). In this role, he directs the strategy and operations of the industry body, which represents the leading issuers of structured securities in Germany, as well as direct banks and exchanges. With DDV offices in Berlin, Frankfurt, and Brussels, he is in regular contact with the German national authorities, as well as with various European institutions.

Prior to this, Henning Bergmann was Head of Capital Markets at the German Savings Banks Association (Deutscher Sparkassen- und Giroverband, DSGV) from 2008 to 2017. At the DSGV, he was responsible for representing the interests of the association's members at the national and European levels, as well as for the implementation of legislation throughout the German Savings Bank Financial Group, including MiFID and EMIR. He started his career as a lawyer in the financial industry, and served as Head of Investment Management and Managing Director of a subsidiary of the Lower Saxony Savings Banks Association (Sparkassenverband Niedersachsen).

From 2015 to 2019, Henning Bergmann was a member of the Consultative Working Group of ESMA's Investor Protection and Intermediaries Standing Committee (IPISC CWG). He also served for four years as the Chair of the Markets Regulation Committee of the European Savings and Retail Banking Group (ESBG).

Henning Bergmann graduated with a PhD in law from the University of Göttingen after studying Law and Business Administration. He lectures on a regular basis and has authored a number of publications on banking and capital markets law.
