

Martha Oberndorfer

Martha Oberndorfer has been involved in many areas of the international capital markets, working in institutional fund management, asset management for private clients, M&A advisory, corporate treasury and sovereign debt management. During the past 15 years, she served the Austrian taxpayers in various functions – as head of BPK, the government owned pension fund, as head of OEBFA, the sovereign debt management office, and as head of OEBIB, the state entity where the equity participations in strategically important companies are held. Along with navigating the debt management office during the crisis period, she supported the set-up of EFSF and ESM with technical experience and contributed to working groups at OECD and IMF. She holds various supervisory and advisory board positions, including the Austrian Shareholder Association, and is a registered verifier for ecolabels for financial products.

Martha has a deep interest for ethics and financial market integrity and wrote her PHD thesis on business ethics. She holds a PHD in social and economic sciences from University of Linz, Austria, an MBA from University of Toronto, Canada, and she is a Chartered Financial Analyst.

Within SMSG, Martha Oberndorfer represents the stakeholder group consumers.
