Speaker to be confirmed
SESSION 2: How to facilitate access to finance for consumers in an inclusive way in the current environment?

Higher food, energy and record petrol prices push up inflation and increase the cost of living, leading people to cancel insurance. Certain categories of consumers including vulnerable groups could encounter difficulties to access financial services. Furthermore, the trend towards increasingly data-driven business models can be compromised if adequate governance measures are not put in place to deal with biases in datasets used in order to avoid discriminatory outcomes. Greater financial inclusion can contribute to greater social mobility, a more effective welfare system and greater national resilience from economic shocks. New products and services reportedly enable access to more affordable products for some consumers.

Confirmed panelists:

- Dr Liz McFall, Director of Data Civics and Chancellor’s Fellow based in the Edinburgh Futures Institute and Sociology, University of Edinburgh
- Olivier Jerusalmy, Managing Director, Financial Inclusion Europe

Moderator: Fausto Parente, Executive Director, EIOPA
