

Lindsey Rogerson

Lindsey Rogerson is an expert in regulating in the interests of consumers. She served six years as a member of the UK Financial Services Authority's Consumer Panel, latterly chairing its European Working Group. She was also a member of the UK Payments Council's Consumer Forum and has acted as an advisor to charities, including Age UK. She consults on the impact of financial regulation for a number of private sector organisations.

Lindsey is also an award winning investment writer. She has edited a number of investment publications as well as the financial section of Scotland's national newspaper, The Scotsman.

She has an MA in Political Economy & History from University of Glasgow and a postgraduate diploma in journalism from Cardiff University.